

CHIME: The Premier Organization for Healthcare CIOs

The College of Healthcare Information Management Executives (CHIME) is the only professional association dedicated to serving the professional development needs of healthcare CIOs and advocating the more effective use of information management within healthcare. For over 15 years, CHIME has met the unique needs of its members by offering scores of programs and services tailored specifically for CIOs in the healthcare industry, including a variety of peer-to-peer networking activities.

“Attending the CHIME CIO Forums has been an invaluable experience for me. I have been to both the Spring and Fall CIO Forums for many years – and every time, I return to my own hospital reinvigorated with new ideas and the inspiration that comes from meeting with the best in our industry. It is one thing to read about the innovations and leaders of HIT in the press, but discussing these innovations with colleagues who face the same challenges and meeting these leaders face-to-face is invaluable.”

– Rodney C. Dykehouse, CHIME Board Chairperson
CIO, UCLA Medical Science

Attending CHIME's CIO Forums is just one of the exclusive benefits available only to CHIME members. In addition to face-to-face networking, CHIME members can also connect, ask questions and get answers, request information and share experiences and opinions with the 1,245+ healthcare CIO members through the CHIME website. Some of CHIME's other benefits include free online education; research, sample documents, RFPs and job descriptions in their IT Warehouse; career services, including CIO job postings; benchmarking and comparative data; and a synergistic relationship between the CIO and the CHIME Foundation firms.

The CHIME Foundation, comprised of healthcare IT vendor and consulting firms, was created specifically to support the educational initiatives of CHIME and its CIO members. As an educational resource, the Foundation also enables its member firms to better address the needs of CIOs and the healthcare IT industry overall.

As a member of the CHIME Foundation, we encourage all of our CIO clients to join CHIME and take advantage of the rewarding benefits CHIME offers.
